ALASKA CONDITION

Report of Gen, Randall Commanding the Department.

MILITARY PREVENTED RIOTS

And Bloodshed-Aid Should be Giv en the Natives-Claim Jumping Has Been the Order of the Day at Nome-Large Area That Has Not Been Prospected.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6 .- Brigadler General George M. Randall, com manding the department of Alaska, un der date of September 20 at St. Michael has submitted his annual report. great deal of the report is devoted conditions at Nome, which he found upon his arrival at a critical stage. It was difficult to obtain convictions by jury trial in the United States commis ners' court, which emboldened the lawless. Labor organizations prevente men from working for less than $1 an hour, and were the cause of much des titution and want and destruction of property.

Fully 18,000 people arrived at Nome in June. Claim jumping was the order of the day. Nearly every one seemed to think he had a divine right to take possession of a claim or town lot wherever Many property owners were disposed to defend their rights by tak ing the law in their own hand. The arrival of troops prevented bloodshed and serious disorder. On the request of the chamber of commerce, the mill tary took charge, thoroughly examined into all complaints, and where th rights of property could be determined placed it in the possession of the lawful owner. Capt. W. A. Bethel, who acted as judge advocate in these cases, is highly praised by General Randall.

The sanitary conditions were placed under the charge of Major E. Ebert, surgeon, who has heretofore reported upon conditions. The energetic efforts of the military improved, these conditions during the summer. Mining Operations.

There were about five hundred men working on the beach at Nome with machinery at one time, and many declined to give answers concerning the prospects for gold, while others admitted they were taking out only from $4 to $6 a day. The beach was practically worked out last year. The tundra is believed to be rich, but it would require large capital to produce results There is a large area of country which has not been prospected, where gold can yet be found, but it requires men of experience to develop such a country General Randall discussed the various points where mining operations have been in progress, most of which have come to the knowledge of the public in reports from Alaska. He says it has been decided to estab lish a permanent military post on the Island of St. Michael. He recommends the purchase of two sternwheel river steamers for operations or Yukon, and that all coal, forage and building material lintended for not later than June 15, and shipped in salling vessels for economy. Also that a cable be laid from Scattle via Juneau and Skagway to Valdez, connecting with the telegraph line nov building over the all-American route from Valdez to Port Egbert, and down the Yukon river to Fort Michael, When this line is completed, General Randall says, the military headquarters should be in southern Alaska, or as

He recommends a life-saving station in the vicinity of Nome, as the tales of death by drowning on the shores of Bering see are appalling, and there is to knowledge of how many lives were lost. He also recommends that light houses with fog whistles be established in southeast Alaska at the following places: Cape Fox, near the southern boundary of the territory; Cape Commana, entrance from the north into Congas Narrows; Five Fingers, in Frederick sound: also a fog signal at Unimak Pass. He also recommends a military reservation at Dutch Harbor, and a conling station, and thinks that for erecting fortifications at this place.

The Natives of Alaska.

General Randall devotes considerable space to the natives of Alaska, and says the Esquimau has been unnoticed by those he has befriended and has en allowed to die for the lack of proper care and food. For years he has stended his hospitality to adventurous white men, and his hut has been the shelter for shipwrecked sailor and frost-bitten miner. From all points, Cape York, Port Clarence, Topek, Golofin bay, Yukon river, and elsewhere, reports have been received of sickness, starvation and mortality so great that it promised to wipe out almost the en-the race. Lieutenant T. H. Jarvis, of the United States revenue service reand the tug Meteor was placed at his disposal for relief work, and about a hundred destitute natives cared for at The revenue cutter Bear has been distributing supplies to the destitute natives, while others in the vicinity of Fort St. Michael have been cared for by the commaning officer of that The work of Lieutenant Jarvis highly commended by General Randall.

In closing this particular feature of his report. General Randall says: many parts of the United States provision has been made for the Indian. Reservatibne have been set apart for him, and food and clothing supplied. In Alaska it was not necessary heretofore to do much, but the great rush of white men that followed the discoveries of gold has completely changed everything. The game and fur-bearing antmals have about disappeared, and the natives' means of sustenance are gone.

"I therefore recommend that the government afford some relief to the natives until such time as they can take care of themselves."

Mistake to Aid White Men. .

General Randall also has the following to say regarding relief to white men who venture into Alaska;

"I am of the opinion that it would be a mistake for the government to give any general aid in future to the venturesome classes of white men who come to Alaska. About three hundred have been sent out on transport and vessels this year, and many more will be sent before the close of naviga tion. The conditions are now generally known throughout the states, and the expectation of government aid in returning to their homes in cases of failure has without toubt been the mos hopeful prospect in view to a consider able number who have come to the country since 1857, and especially in the recent rush to Nome."

THE INHERITANCES.

A Clear Case of the Reward of Merit as Exemplified in the Days When There is Little Beward. Chicago Times-Herald: Now it came pass that in a certain city there lived an old man who had three sons and a daughter. He was feeble, and his white beard fell upon his breast like a tablecloth hanging over the side of a cracker box. His sons had married, and his daughter had married, and they had gone away and left him alone, and were busy belonging to clubs and raising families of their own.

And it befoll upon a day that the old man arose and clapped his hands, and ran his fingers through the long strands of his beard and smiled. And he sat him down to write and he wrote four letters, one to John and one to Lemuel and one to Isaac and one to Margaret, and this is what he wrote in the letter to each:

"Come home at once, for I have great news. I have inherited $100,000 in cash.' First he sent it copy of the letter to John, and it came to pass that John took the next train back to see dear old father. And when he was come into the presence of thillold man they threw their arms each about the other, and at last the old man said:

favor you over miliother children. To them each I shalf give $20,000, but to you my dear son, I shall give twice $20,000." And John answered him, saying:

"My good father; I have tried to be a dutiful son. Do my brothers and my sister know of this thing? For if they do not I beg of you let them believe I share equally with them, so that they shall not rise up in anger against me."

And the old man promised that it should be so, and John went away stepping like a man who is upstairs, but thinks there is one more.

And so the oldogian sent for Lemue and for Isaac separately and spake unto them even as he had spoken to John, and they made answer praising him for his goodness and reminding him that they had always been dutiful sons, and praying that he might not permit their brothers and their sister to know how they had been favored, lest there should be a rumpus.

And as Isaac, at last, departed with his chest buiging into space after manner of a sail that is full of wind, the old man sat him down and wept insomuch that his beard was as limp as a woman's frizeles on a foggy night. Last of all, he sent for Margaret, but Margaret was III and could not go, and so she sent her husband, and when he stood in the old man's presence and heard what John and Lemuel and Isaac had heard before him he said:

"Do the others know of your desire to give Margaret twice as much as any of her brothers shall receive?"

sighed and answered "No." Then the man who stood before him eald: "You must not no this thing that you said: propose. You must divide the money equally, so that one shall not be favored above the others, for your daughter left you in your olfrage and your help deserves no more from you than any of

And then the patriarch fell upon the neck of his son-in-law and moistened the latter's brisics with tears, and cried aloud saying;
"You are a good,man and an honest man. You put my sons to shame. have inherited nommoney; but I shall give you a priceless cem, which is my confidence. I shall put myself in your keeping for the little while that I have to remain upon this earth, and trust you to give me decent burial when I am dead. Come, Pam ready to go home with you."

It Makes Restful Sleep.

Bleepleasness almost invariably accompanies constitution and its manifold attendant evils—nervous disorders, indigestion, headache, loss of appetite, etc. To attempt to induce sleep by opiates is a serious mistake, for the brain is only benumbed and the body suffers. Celery King removes the cause of wakefulness by its soothing effect on the nerves and on the stomach and bowels.

time. You know, every sport, no mat-ter how small a sport he may be, al-ways likes to assert himself about elec-tion time. He has his own opinions, or, at least, he humors himself with the belief that they are his own. And he likes to back them up with a cash bet. In order to do this he is usually obligd to raise a little money and this is where the pawnbroker comes in. Just at present we are overrun with these cheap sports, who try to raise sums ranging from twenty-five cents to $25. Of course, this small trade doesn't bring us large returns, but it counts in the long run."

FATAL FIGHT

Between Deputy Sheriffs and Policemen-Number Wounded and One Negro Killed-Great Excitement.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 6 .- A fatal figh between deputy sheriffs and policemen occurred at seven o'clock this at the polls at Twenty-second and Lat timer streets. The dend:

John C. Branford, colored: specia deputy sheriff. Wounded:

Charles F. Carpenter, policeman, in the leg and arm; dangerously hurt. Hampson Jackson, colored, deputy sherff, skull fractured and arm broken; may die. Charles Green, special policeman, sho in the back; seriously hurt, Stewart Harvey, colored, deputy sher iff, shot in the left arm. When Sheriff Jones' deputies went to District H., Precinct 4, this morning, several policemen ordered them to leave the polling places. The deputies refused to do so, and the special police rushed upon them with clubs and pistols. An unknown deputy drew a reman ,and shot at him, wounding Patrolman Carpenter, who returned the fire. Special Policeman Green then began to club a negro in the crowd, supposed ly Jackson, and was shot in the back The melee became general, and bullets flew thick for a few minutes. The injured officers were taken to police pendquarters, and afterwards sent to the hospital. The dead man was taken in charge by the coroner.

After Nearly Forty Years.

After carrying a Union builet in his body for thirty-eight years, General R. N. Richbourg, of Montgomery, S. C., has got rid of it. He commanded the Fourth brigade, South Carolina militia, and was twice wounded at the battle of Frazier's farm, June 27, 1882. While charging the breastworks a builet struck him full in the breast. The other day he felt a reals in his back, and that day he felt a pain in his back, and that night he placed a drawing plaster on the spot where there was inflammation. The next morning the pain was relieved, and, taking off the plaster, he found the bullet sticking to it.

Missionaries Lead Commerce

Dr. Horatio C. Wood, the brain spe dalist, of Philadelphia, who has just returned from a trip to Japan, says: "There is an antagonism existing between the Europeans in commercial life in China and the missionaries. The former, especially among the younger set, are apt to fall into a dissolute manner of living which precludes any sympathy with the ideals of the churchmen. The missionaries are the wedge of civilizamissionaries are the wedge of civiliza tion. It is always the case that they lead and commerce follows."

Still Practicing the Gentle Art.

"Jimmy" Whistler, the self-exiled American artist and author of "The Art of Making Enemies," has a number of students under instruction in Paris. One of them, a young woman, asked him not long ago if he thought she might paint nature as she saw it. "Certainly, my dear madam," said Whistler. "There is no reason why you should not paint nature as you see it so long as you do not it so long as you do not see nature as Warm Praise for Chamberlain. Here is a late appreciation of Joseph Chamberlain, written by an American Chamberlain, written by an American author: "He is the master of Englishmen of to-day, the big operator, the great grasping planner of vast works, and he has the coolness and nerve of Jay Gould, the alert brain of James Hill, of the Great Northern railroad, with the charm and ease and suavity of William C. Whitney."

To Cut Off an "Unearned Increment." Member Anderson, of the Boston chool board, proposes that when a voman teacher gets married her name shall be stricken from the pay-roll. His reason is a plain, blunt one. He alleges that it has been the custom for school teachers to apply for leave of absence just before their marriage, and taking this vacation for their honeymoon, get regular pay while gone.

Mueller Mever Dictated.

The late Max Mueller never employed stenographer or a typewriter, and wrote all his life a clear and legible wrote all his life a clear and legible hand. Another interesting fact in life was that he ardently desired in his youth to follow the study of music, but refrained because deafness was hereditary in his family, and he feared it might come upon him in his prime and injure his usefulness in that line.

Always Approachable.

The late John Sherman thought If the duty of every public man to reselve, whenever possible, all who wish-od to see him. Only a short while be-fore fits death he said: "If people want to see, me they shall do so as long as I have the strength to receive them."

WHEELING WHOLESALE MARKETS Weekly Change of Quotations in all Lines of Local Trade.

Office of the Intelligencer, Wheeling, Nov. 6. The business of the wholesale groces has been the source of much comment because of the unprecedented demand and firm values than have characterized this paricular branch of our commercial interest. For a campaign year it is a new experience. Grocery values respond more quickly than almost any other to the conditions that change prices, and often a mere rumor without foundation will send many an article down or up before the trade is aware of the influence. With the uncertainty over, cor dence is reasserted and with seasonabl weather there must be a demand that will gradually stiffen prices.

The sugar situation is practically un changed. Buyers are careful of their purchases and are carrying only small stocks. A decline is anticipated within the next few days.

Coffee has become stronger; receipts are falling off and the visible supply smaller than was expected. No im-mediate change is anticipated or roasted coffee. While the export demand for wheat is smaller, the foreign market is bet-ter. The shorts are seeking every favorable opportunity to cover. Flour has advanced slightly during We consider purchase the last week.

Our quotations on hams and sides show a decline. The provision market is strong and lower prices are not expected in the near future. In produce trade has quieted down somewhat. Apples show some advance. This week ends Concord grapes, next week Cataw-bas. Not near so much is stored this season as last. General trade is adopting a hand to mouth policy. Coleictions better than sales past week.
